“ *A memory of Brandon:
Lana, Debbie Cotton, and me use to take turn car pooling the kids to and from school at least when one couldnt there was always one of us that would. This was grade school Brandon and Arin same grade same age.. this happen all the time and probably not just when I had them after school, now this is when they were in kindergarden thur 2nd grade Arin would be scolding Brandon for something, (his sock needed pulled up, his shoes was untied, blow your nose Brandon!) Arin would say those things as if he was her husband and they been married 50 years.. and Brandon never once got mad at Arin he would even do what she say with a smile.. I loved that little boy! thurs we Lana and I would say they were going to marry some day.. I bet they would of to! I'm happy he did find love, and out of love he has had two beautiful perfect children.. and Brandon had always told me that he missed Arin.. love that man and will alway miss him..*

“ Wow just wow. Can't think of anyone else I would have wanted to grow up with one street over and walk to and from school with. This is just shocking. How many videos do ya think my mom has of you, me and Myriah singing Boys 2 Men? All those fun times in karate and choir. You didn't care what people said either about you being in choir. Man we had some fun in the good old days. Think its time to do some reminiscing. I know you will be watching over those beautiful babies. You always did have a big ol heart. Gone but not forgotten.
