“ Since I have been living out of state for years, Brandon and I weren't as close as all of you. I would ask of him though. However, this year was different. I reached out to him when he was about to be released out of the hospital to let him know I loved him and would be there for him..even just for a listening ear. He mentioned of missing the days when Stephanie sang Backstreet boys on the porch and playing with Jeremy, my son n same age, and the love of his children, and more. .He kept thanking me that I was there to talk to when wanted. He was so excited to receive cleaning supplies and a mop he could use with his hand . He spoke of how beautiful my grandchildren were and we shared photos of the kids, and how much going to California meant to him.. So I helped. This went on for months til the last week of June. Oh my heart. .. Brandon was Just like my son. Our last conversation was Brandon sending his love and care for my son , Jeremy. He was so thoughtful , wanted to help him. They definitely related to each other and understood each others pain and struggles. I am thankful to have had the conversations and memories of my cousin. These will always remain. My love goes out to all of you, my cousins and his beautiful children.
